

Titania dotes upon Bottom, the ass.

“Are you sure that we are awake? It seems to me that yet we sleep, we dream.”

In Act IV, Scene i, virtually all of the play's conflict is resolved with shocking speed. Oberon lifts the spell from Titania, Demetrius falls in love with Helena (thanks to the fairies) and Theseus proclaims that his wedding that evening will also be the wedding of each couple.

Pick an experience that you've had that happened so fast or so strangely that it felt like a dream. What happened? Describe, in roughly one paragraph (or more) your experience. As you do so, choose at least one passage from the text that describes or relates well to your experience and include it in your description.
